National English Honor Society

Honor Code

As a member of the National English Honor Society, I uphold the motto 'duty goes with honor.' I understand that my duty and my honor call me to think with originality, act with integrity, and respect the work of others.

I affirm that the work I submit reflects my genuine effort, learning, and creativity. When I draw upon external sources, including texts, ideas, peers, or digital tools such as AI, I do so responsibly, transparently, and with the necessary acknowledgment.

I commit to using resources and technologies as partners in my growth: to inspire ideas, to deepen understanding, and to expand equity of access. In doing so, I ensure that my own voice, perspective, and creativity remain at the center of my work.
